SUBJECT: MANAGEMENT PROPOSAL FOR ROOM RATE REVIEW, AUTOMATED DYNAMIC PRICING, REFERRAL SYSTEM ACTIVATION AND REVENUE GROWTH

Dear Management,

1. INTRODUCTION

LodgeCore PMS LTD is committed to helping Stanzel Grand Resort improve its revenue performance, room occupancy, booking management, financial accountability and long-term competitiveness through technology-driven hospitality management solutions.

We propose a review of the resort's room rates, the introduction of an automated date-based pricing structure and activation of the LodgeCore Referral System. The recommendations are submitted for management review and approval; all proposed prices, commissions and implementation fees remain subject to formal approval before implementation.

2. PROPOSED ROOM RATE REVIEW

The proposed rates below provide a starting point for management consideration and should be validated against local competitors, demand, operating costs, tax treatment and occupancy trends.

2.1 Proposed room-rate schedule

Room category	Current	Weekday/base	Weekend	Public holiday	Festive/event peak
Standard	₦30,000	₦34,500	₦38,000	₦42,000	₦45,000
Superior	₦33,000	₦38,000	₦42,000	₦46,000	₦50,000
Deluxe	₦35,000	₦40,000	₦45,000	₦50,000	₦55,000
Executive	₦48,500	₦55,000	₦62,000	₦68,000	₦75,000
Stanzel Suite	₦70,000	₦80,000	₦90,000	₦100,000	₦110,000

Festive/event rates may be used for approved high-demand periods, including Christmas and New Year. An illustrative period is 20 December to 5 January, but actual dates must be approved and configured by management.

2.2 Corporate and promotional pricing

Room category	Base rate	5% discount	Corporate/promotional
Standard	₦34,500	₦1,725	₦32,775
Superior	₦38,000	₦1,900	₦36,100
Deluxe	₦40,000	₦2,000	₦38,000
Executive	₦55,000	₦2,750	₦52,250
Stanzel Suite	₦80,000	₦4,000	₦76,000

Corporate and promotional rates should have clear eligibility, validity dates and usage limits. They should not automatically apply during public holidays, festive periods or major events unless management approves the exception.

3. AUTOMATED DATE-BASED PRICING IN LODGECORE PMS

We recommend an approved pricing calendar so room prices correspond to the actual dates of a guest's stay rather than one fixed rate throughout the year.

3.1 Recommended pricing categories

- Weekday: Standard approved rates for Monday to Thursday.
- Weekend: Higher rates for Friday to Sunday where demand supports the adjustment.
- Public holiday: Special rates for approved public holidays.
- Festive: Designated Christmas, New Year and other festive dates.
- Special event: Approved rates for conferences, weddings, festivals and other demand events.
- Corporate: Contractual rates for eligible corporate customers.
- Promotional: Controlled offers for selected dates or campaigns.

3.2 How automated pricing should work

When a reservation is created, the system should determine the applicable approved rate for each night. Where rules overlap, management should approve a clear priority order. Confirmed reservations should retain their agreed prices unless an authorized repricing process applies. Manual overrides should require permissions and a recorded reason. Implementation should be validated against existing booking and billing workflows.

3.3 Business benefits

- Capture more revenue during high-demand periods.
- Offer controlled promotions when occupancy is low.
- Reduce inconsistent or unauthorized price changes.
- Give teams a consistent source of approved rates.
- Compare occupancy and revenue across pricing periods.
- Support decisions using actual booking performance.

The objective is to apply the right approved price to the right demand period while protecting guest trust and commercial interests.

4. LODGECORE REFERRAL SYSTEM ACTIVATION

We propose activating the LodgeCore Referral System for Stanzel Grand Resort at a one-time activation fee of ₦150,000, subject to management approval and confirmation of the agreed implementation scope. The referral system is intended to help the resort build a structured network of approved partners who can introduce new guests and generate qualifying room reservations.

Potential referral partners include travel agents and tourism operators, corporate organizations and business travel coordinators, event planners and wedding organizers, hospitality marketers and approved independent agents, companies requiring accommodation for staff or visitors, and other approved individuals or organizations capable of referring genuine paying guests.

The system provides a framework for associating eligible reservations with their referral sources and calculating approved commissions according to the programme rules.

4.1 What the activation is intended to cover

- Initial referral programme configuration.
- Setup of approved referral partners and applicable referral rules.
- Referral code or link configuration where supported.
- Booking attribution and qualifying-booking rules.
- Commission rate configuration.
- Tracking of eligible bookings and commission calculations.
- Referral performance reporting where supported.
- Testing and initial operational handover.

The final scope should be documented before payment. Any recurring fees, third-party charges, additional custom development or services outside the agreed scope should be disclosed separately. The ₦150,000 activation fee is separate from the commissions earned by referral partners.

5. HOW THE REFERRAL SYSTEM WILL HELP STANZEL GRAND RESORT GROW

5.1 Increased room occupancy

The resort can expand its customer acquisition beyond walk-in guests and direct enquiries. Approved partners can introduce customers who may otherwise book elsewhere. This can be particularly valuable during weekdays and other periods when occupancy is below the resort's target.

5.2 Wider market reach

Each productive referral partner can expose the resort to a new network of potential guests. Travel agents can introduce tourists, corporate partners can refer business travellers, and event planners can recommend accommodation to guests attending weddings, conferences and celebrations.

5.3 Performance-based marketing

A structured referral programme allows the resort to associate commissions with eligible, attributable bookings rather than paying rewards without evidence of results. Management can assess the cost of acquiring referral-driven business and compare it with the accommodation revenue generated.

5.4 Corporate and commercial partnerships

The programme can help the resort establish relationships with companies, travel agencies, event organizers and other organizations that may provide recurring accommodation demand. Over time, productive relationships can create opportunities for repeat bookings, group reservations and longer-term commercial arrangements.

5.5 Improved booking accountability

Referral attribution can help management determine which approved partners are generating bookings, which reservations qualify for commission and how much revenue is associated with each referral source.

5.6 Better management decisions

When referral results are reviewed alongside occupancy, room revenue, average daily rate and booking-source performance, management can identify opportunities to improve sales and pricing. The value of the programme should be evaluated using actual results rather than assumptions about how many bookings it will generate.

5.7 A more scalable sales channel

As the network of productive partners expands, the resort can establish an additional channel for generating business without relying exclusively on traditional advertising. The programme does not guarantee increased occupancy or revenue; results will depend on partner activity, market demand, pricing, guest experience and effective programme management.

6. RECOMMENDED REFERRAL COMMISSION POLICY

We recommend starting with a commission of 5% of eligible accommodation revenue for approved referral partners. The commission should ordinarily be calculated after approved discounts and exclude VAT and service charge, subject to management's approval and the final commission policy.

6.1 Illustrative commission schedule

Room category	Base selling rate	5% commission / qualifying room-night
Standard	₦34,500	₦1,725
Superior	₦38,000	₦1,900
Deluxe	₦40,000	₦2,000
Executive	₦55,000	₦2,750
Stanzel Suite	₦80,000	₦4,000

For multi-night reservations, commission should reflect the actual eligible accommodation amount for each night.

6.2 Alternative fixed-commission model

Room category	Fixed commission / qualifying room-night
Standard	₦1,500
Superior	₦1,750
Deluxe	₦2,000
Executive	₦2,500
Stanzel Suite	₦3,500

Management should select either the percentage model or fixed model. The two models should not be combined for the same booking unless expressly approved.

6.3 Eligibility and protection rules

- Partners must be registered or approved.
- Reservations must have valid referral attribution.
- Commission is payable only after a qualifying stay is completed and payment received.
- Cancelled, refunded and no-show reservations should not earn commission; reversals must be recorded.
- Commissions should use the defined eligible revenue basis.
- Commission calculations, payouts and reversals must be traceable to bookings.
- Management retains authority over partners, commission changes and exceptions.

7. FINANCIAL VALUE OF THE ₦150,000 ACTIVATION

The activation fee is an investment in establishing a structured referral channel, not a guarantee of future bookings or profit. At 5%, ₦150,000 is equivalent to the gross commission calculated on ₦3,000,000 of eligible accommodation revenue. This is a mathematical comparison, not a promise of results.

For illustration, ₦1,000,000 in additional eligible accommodation revenue at 5% produces ₦50,000 commission. The resort must also account for servicing costs, the activation fee and other applicable expenses. Performance should be assessed using incremental bookings, realized revenue, commission expenditure, operating costs and a suitable baseline.

8. FINANCIAL CONTROL AND ACCOUNTING CONSIDERATIONS

The arrangements should operate within the resort's approved accounting configuration. The following mappings should be verified against the approved chart of accounts:

Accounting item	GL account
Accommodation revenue	4050
VAT	2200
Service charge	2210
Food allocation	4250

Referral commissions should be recorded separately under the approved commission or marketing expense account. The ₦150,000 activation fee should be classified according to the resort's accounting policy and the nature of the agreed service.

The system should preserve a clear audit trail for:

- Rate changes and manual overrides.
- Corporate and promotional discounts.
- Referral attribution.
- Commission calculations, approvals, payouts and reversals.
- Refunds, cancellations and responsible users.

A room rate less referral commission should not automatically be treated as net profit. Consider operating costs, taxes, service charge treatment, payment charges and other applicable expenses.

9. IMPLEMENTATION AND OPERATIONAL REVIEW

Phase 1 — Management approval

Confirm rates, pricing calendar, commission model, activation fee, programme scope and effective date.

Phase 2 — Configuration

Configure approved pricing and referral rules within the agreed LodgeCore PMS scope.

Phase 3 — Validation

Test rate calculations, multi-night bookings, referral attribution, eligibility, cancellations, refunds and reporting.

Phase 4 — Operational handover

Explain approved rules to reservation, reception, finance and management personnel.

Phase 5 — Performance review

Review occupancy, room revenue, average daily rate, referral bookings, commission costs and partner performance after an agreed period.

Implementation should be controlled, documented and validated against production workflows. Approved accounting mappings and confirmed reservation prices should not be changed without authorization.

10. OFFICIAL RECOMMENDATION FROM THE CEO

As CEO, Founder and Full Stack Developer of LodgeCore PMS LTD, my recommendation is that Stanzel Grand Resort adopt a controlled, demand-aware revenue strategy supported by reliable management systems. A single fixed room rate throughout the year may not fully reflect differences in guest demand, public holidays, weekends, festive periods and special events. A structured pricing calendar provides management with a framework for responding to these differences while retaining control over discounts and exceptions.

I also recommend considering the LodgeCore Referral System as an additional sales channel. By creating an approved network of referral partners and linking commissions to completed, paid and attributable bookings, the resort can measure referral performance and make more informed decisions about commercial partnerships.

The proposed ₦150,000 activation fee should be considered alongside the agreed implementation scope, expected business needs and measurable performance indicators. The initial commission rate of 5% should be reviewed using actual results rather than treated as a permanent rate without evaluation.

My advice is to implement these measures with clear approval rules, proper financial controls and regular performance reviews. The goal is to help Stanzel Grand Resort attract additional business, use its room inventory more effectively and build a more measurable, sustainable approach to revenue growth.

11. MANAGEMENT APPROVAL REQUESTED

We respectfully request management's consideration and approval of the following:

- Proposed room-rate review and weekday/base rates.
- Weekend, public holiday, festive and special-event pricing.
- Corporate and promotional discount rules.
- Automated date-based pricing calendar and rate priorities.
- LodgeCore Referral System activation fee of ₦150,000, subject to agreed scope.
- 5% referral commission or alternative fixed-commission model.
- Commission eligibility, payout, cancellation and reversal policies.
- Implementation effective date and performance-review period.

Upon approval, LodgeCore PMS LTD can proceed with the agreed implementation plan and operational handover.

We appreciate the opportunity to support Stanzel Grand Resort in strengthening its revenue management, commercial partnerships and hospitality operations.

Yours faithfully,
